Go, Swing it on the Mountain

The brass chorale that opens the chart and returns at 63 should be played as beautifully as possible. Good balance and solid intonation are very important in these passages. In measure 28 there should be silence on beats 3 and 4 to make the triplet on beat 2 more dramatic. The solos at 47 and 55 may be played as written or improvised. If they are played as written, make sure the soloists play with confidence and keep the swinging feel going. The four measures before the key change should be conducted with an acceleration in measure 70 to the swing tempo of 104 in bar 71.
