Foreword

"Gentle Summer Breeze" was created to capture the relaxed atmosphere of summer in easily accessible piano pieces. The works are simplified and stripped down to their essence, allowing you to dive into the melodies without much practice. This collection is aimed at both beginners and advanced pianists looking for quick access to summer classics.

It begins with "Summer's eve" by Edvard Grieg, which captures the serene beauty of a summer evening. This is followed by "July - Song of the Reaper" by Pyotr Ilyich Tchaikovsky, which brings to life the summer activity of people out in nature mowing the fields.

After a long summer's day, Christoph Willibald Gluck's "Dance of the Blessed Spirits" is a wonderful way to relax. The famous piece from the opera "Orfeo ed Euridice" is technically demanding in its original form, but in the simplified piano version, the heart of the work is condensed into one page.

Next, Felix Mendelssohn Bartholdy's "Notturmo" from "A Midsummer Night's Dream" offers a nocturnal summer mood full of grace. With its gentle, lyrical melody, it is an excellent example of Mendelssohn's ability to create atmospheric soundscapes.

Finally, Claude Debussy's "Clair de Lune" invites you to enjoy the moonlit romance of a summer evening. This impressionistic work, the third movement of the Suite bergamasque, is one of Debussy's most famous piano pieces and creates an atmosphere of tranquility and romance. Often used in movies and concerts, it is a must for any pianist.

These works are perfect for trying out summer tunes without much practice. You can quickly put together a summer concert program to share with your family and friends.

Make your summer's collection of music more enjoyable with these simplified piano versions of the most beautiful summer classics.
