Momentous Overture

Ryan Meeboer

This piece is a celebratory work composed to reflect a special occasion. The opening measures need to be played brightly and with a slight lilt, in order to create the feel of a procession. This feeling should continue as the main body of the piece begins at measure 11, even with the absence of many instruments, and the drop in dynamic marking.

At measure 19, the addition of the rest of the band will almost create the required increase of dynamics and feel. Make sure performers do not interpret the dynamic marking as individuals, and work together to create it as a group.

The bridge, at measure 27, introduces a new melody. This melody is similar in style to the main melody, with new harmonies to create the contrast. A counter-melody, at measure 31, is used to continue this contrast, so be sure it is prominent as the new material in the piece.

At measure 43, the introduction returns to conclude the piece. Performers need to control their tone in the final measures as they play with the strong dynamic combined with accents.

Ryan Meeboer is a music educator, who obtained his degree through the Ontario Institute for Studies in Education at the University of Toronto. As a composer, he has written and arranged many pieces for concert band, jazz band, and small ensembles. His young band piece, Last Voyage of the Queen Anne's Revenge, has been well received by performers, educators, and audiences, and his pieces are starting to be found on festival and contest lists. As a performer, he has had experience in several groups, including concert and stage bands, chamber choir, vocal jazz ensemble, acoustic duets, and the Hamilton based swing group, "The Main Swing Connection".

Ryan began studying music at the age of seven through private guitar lessons. During his years in elementary and secondary school, he gained experience in several families of instruments. Focusing on music education and theory (including composition and orchestration), he attended McMaster University to achieve his honours degree in music. Ryan is currently a teacher for the Halton District School Board in Ontario, where he continues to compose and arrange.
