The music in this series is composed for the student who needs something special to play for recitals, friends and family, or just for fun.

Each composition is especially designed to help students learn to read beyond the beginning five-finger patterns and to move hands across the keyboard with confidence.

The varying styles of these pieces are carefully written, appealing to a broad range of students. Whether the student is a young beginner, teenager or adult, these compositions will provide a valuable learning experience and help cultivate an expressive and exciting performance technique.
