Posluching "I Mugnai"

1. Ouverture en Gavotte (voor Jan Molenaar)

Vader Molenaar (door 't hoofdmotief wordt hij handachtig) zet de melie in beweging. Maar nog niet meer, als het tegen de stroom in, moderne componisten en kans gevend, maar alomtegenwoordig met de melie steeds beter draaien en als men het, (vanaf maat 13) de zaai overneemt (dooroverdracht op het motief (= ideeën) van vader) loop alles pesser. Af en toe geavanceerd en wel eens overvloedig dielen en ook wel een beetje dissonanten, maar die worden dan toch weer opgelost. Zoals U hoort (vanaf maat 35) heeft hij alles goed onder controle. En de ideeën van vader (Schieding) loopt de melie - onder de crisis (vanaf maat 52) - de laatste jaren (vanaf 59) steeds creërend.

2. Serenata (voor Willeke)

In de familie Molenaar is Willeke (de vrouw van Jan), met haar artistieke creativiteit (ze zingt en schildert), zo'n beetje het (romantische) botenbeentje. Dit heb ik opgevoerd duidelijk te maken door in dit deel de thematiek twee thema's te gebruiken. Het hoofdmotief begintachtig aan in de bes met veel maatwisselingen, Willeke laat zich niet meer vangen in een vast maatstelsel! Dit hoofdmotief is met zijner, als het ware onduidelijk. In het nu opgevoerd P-klank doet er niet toe, want bij de voortdurende herhalingen ervan zweeft het overal zo'n beetje in het rond.

In het "omlijstende" tweede hoofdmotief is echter duidelijk de verbondenheid met het begin van het "Jan Molenaar-thema" uit met in deel barbaars: n.l. de herhaling van de (kleine) tweede stapjes.

Vergelijk: deel I - de lange opnamen naar het thema in maat 13

Deel II - De tweede die het hele deel door terugkomen:

Deze tweede geven - in dit langzaam tempo - een "murmurant", onvolledig karakter aan het stuk. En via op een zachtzinnig samenvoegde de Saane Schans met zijn melie al eens een sonderend heeft weggemaakt; voelt dat, nadat in maat 22 nog even een laatste allet voor de son voptrikt de Saane Schans kan laten gloeien voordat hij achter de huizen aan de overkant verlikt. Overigens is de Saane Schans - de streek waar de familie Molenaar zijn wortels heeft - typisch Saane.

3. Minuet (voor Ilse)

Wie kan men een elegante, maar beschiedend vrouw als Ilse (de vrouw van Bob Molenaar) muzikaal beter beschrijven dan met een elegant minuet? Angewenst bij de laatste sal zijn op over zichzelf de loftroupe te steken, heb ik dat voor haar gedaan in het thema van dit deel. Ook dit thema staat weer van wat ik het "Molenaar-thema" noem.

Vergelijk: Molenaar's Thema

Missal de plaats van de 2 laatste noten op, voeg een paar visueel doorzeggende tonen toe, en er ontstaat:

het thema van de "lof-troupe" in dit deel.

Brenale in het voorbeeldig, harmonisch gezin van Ilse en Bob, met zijn diversiteit aan karakter, komen ook in dit minuet diverse thematieken - telkens van 2 noten - voor, die decaard een uitgebalanceerd geheel vormen en waar het niet zonder het andere kan. Omroep op te merken, dat het geheel gracieuze en elegant uitgevoerd moet worden.

4. Ronde (voor Bob)

Vergelijk U het beginthema van deel IV met het hoofdmotief van deel I (D.v., direct aan het begin, of vanaf maat 13 met opmaat) dan ziet U meteen dat het niet gaat om twee gekozen.

Het "intimotiv" dat door vader Molenaar werd ingezet, wordt duidelijk door het voortzetten en uitgesponnen. Het is dan ook niet verwonderlijk dat ik voor dit minuet heb gekozen (= rondes, met steeds wachterend in themen). De vorm van het door mij gekozen rond is:

A - A - B - A - C - A - C

tonica - tonica - dominant - tonica - sub.dom. - tonica - tonica

De afsluiting herinnert nog even aan de "kop" van het thema. In de uitvoering Molenaar is Bob deperde die ervoor zorgt, dat als de melie filmisch met een mooi loopje, de melie (naar te horen is aan de ratal in de maat 27-29, 31-32) hij daarmee weer terug draait als ook tevoren (vanaf maat 33). De computer rinkel weer (triangel) in maat 33, zodat nu de melie niet meer kunnen gaan met het schrijven van muziek t.b.v. diegenen waar hij vader Molenaar allemaal op behouwen is.

Programme notes on "I Mugnai" (the millers)

1. Ouverture en Gavotte (for Jan Molenaar)

Father Molenaar (represented by the principal motif) sets the mill in motion. Many going at first as if the forward motion is being obstructed - giving modern composers a chance - but slowly (from bar 7) the mill starts to run smoother and smoother and when his son Jan (from bar 13) takes over (continuing on his father's motif = ideas) everything runs like a well-oiled machine. Every now and then unexpected things happen and occasional little dissonances are also there, but they are all straightened out. As you will hear (from bar 35) son Jan has everything well under control. And amidst of father's ideas, the mill has been running gracefully these last years in spite of minor crises (from bar 52).

2. Serenata (for Willeke)

In the Molenaar family Willeke (Jan's wife) represents the (romantic) Byronic with her artistic creativity (she likes singing and painting). I have tried to bring this forward by using two themes as the basis of the piece. The main theme - with frequent meter changes - softly begins in the bass. Willeke can't be caught in a rigid metric pattern! This main theme has a slightly muffled quality. It creates an absent-minded atmosphere. Even its tonality is more or less obscure. Is it A-major or F#-minor? Well it does not matter, for its constant repetition makes it float anywhere. The embedding second main theme bears a clearly recognizable relationship to the initial "Jan Molenaar-theme" from the first movement: the repetition of the (minor) second intervals. Compare: first movement - long upbeats to the theme in bar 13:

Second movement: the constantly re-appearing seconds:

In a slow tempo these seconds give a "murmuring", undulating character to the music. These seconds also suggested a sunset at the "Saane Schans" with its many mills, will undoubtedly recognize this atmosphere. They will feel that (in bar 22) after the last cloud has passed, the sun will appear in a short glimpse of its red glow, the latter vanishes behind the cottages across the river. It must be said that the "Saane Schans" is typical for the region where the Molenaar family have their roots.

3. Minuet (for Ilse)

How can one, but modest lady that Ilse (Bob Molenaar's wife) is, better be described than by a gracious minuet. As she is not the type to blow her own trumpet. I have done that on her behalf in the theme of this movement. This theme also stems from what I shall call the "Molenaar's Theme". Compare: "Molenaar's Theme"

Change the position of the last two notes, add a few transitional tones and this is the result:

which is the "trumpet of praise" of this movement. Just as in the exemplary harmonic design of Ilse and Bob which is the exemplary characters, there are also different thematic fragments of two bars each and yet they form a well-balanced structure in which one is the complement without the other. It goes without saying that this movement should be played in a gracious and elegant style.

4. Ronde (for Bob)

Should you compare the initial theme of the fourth movement with the theme of the first movement (right at the beginning of the first movement) you will immediately see that it is the same.

It is the one of the same. The initial theme of the fourth movement is the same as the initial theme of the first movement.
