I Will Give My Love an Apple

Canadian Folk Song
Arranged by Ryan Meeboer

This is a peaceful arrangement of a Canadian folk song that was adapted from a Traditional English riddle song by Nova Scotians.

In the climactic section of the piece (m 36,37), many parts have accented notes. These notes are meant to be nice and dramatic, but be sure the performers do not over exaggerate the accents. The rest at the beginning of measure 36 is important as well, as it allows the final passage of the melody to stand out alone for that brief moment and adds to the effect.

I will give my love an apple without any core,
I will give my love a dwelling without any door,
I will give my love a palace wherein she might be,
That she might unlock it without any key.

How can there be an apple without any core?
How can there be a dwelling without any door?
How can there be a palace wherein she might be,
That she can unlock without any key?

My head is an apple without any core?
My mind is a dwelling without any door?
My heart is a palace wherein she might be,
That she can unlock without any key.
